When it comes to eating out, there's no shortage of dining deals to be found in this town. But we'd venture to say that Boston's best restaurants rarely offer two deals at once – until now.

Kicking off today, August 28 at 10 a.m., Gilt City Boston is teaming up with Back Bay's innovative gallery-restaurant, Liquid Art House, to offer two new sales to deal hunting

Bostonians. One of the sales is a more casual dining experience while the other is an “exclusive five-course dinner for two curated by Chef Rachel Klein,” notes a release.

The first Liquid Art House deal is a Dumplings & Drinks for Two deal. The dinner package includes 2 large plates of dumplings to share with a choice of wild mushroom or Lithuanian Farmer’s cheese and two cocktails or wine. The meal will cost you $45 but is a $76 value.

The second five course dinner option will include an assortment of dishes. Sample dishes include chilled coconut soup, duck confit, Australian Lamb Loin, and more. The five course dinner also includes a glass of Cava and will cost you $150 with the Gilt City Boston deal (a $250 value).

For more information, check back on the Gilt City Boston site after 10 a.m. today.
